LEVUKA, Oct. 13.

Our Colonial Secretary is with you now, enjoying the serene beauties of your lovely Botanic Gardens. In his case "the eye brings with it what it sees," and Fiji will be somewhat the richer when he returns from the holiday: for Mr. Thurston has ever been a persistent introducer of new flowers and shrubs and trees into this already rich country. Tongues here and at Suva are naturally busy as to his exact purpose in leaving so suddenly. It is supposed that it may be to arrange as to the German claims, regarding which the new-named Chancellor of Waterland has taken such

The Gulf of Akaba, a large steamship from London, has landed her cargo in Suva and Levuka, and has gone down to Ellington with the massive engine required for crushing the cane. How the ponderous steamer is to get through the "oughts and crosses" at Nananu is best known to her half-caste pilot, but the abut on which the Earl of Wemyss knocked a hole through herself is well aware only one engine was at work.

I had a very bad running sore on my right side, near the hip, which had been there for 17 years. It had been treated, of various schools, from Maine to Chicago, without obtaining the slightest benefit. Last February I was induced to try your Cuticura Remedies. After taking five bottles of Cuticura, Baidarrin, and using two boxes of Cuticura, and one of Cuticura Soap, I am to-day a well man. The sore entirely healed up, the skin sound and hard. No itching or trouble. My cure has been the means of selling large quantities of your remedies, as my case is known.—LADY.

a question involving a married life. Surely our Parliament would do well to make some more stringent laws as to the constitution of our own similar cases. If there be a case in which the whole strength of the Court is required it is when deciding on a Crown reserved. Hitherto it has been common all the Judges to sit in such a case, we are not aware that they have done so since the recent Act, instead of providing, actually prevents their so doing when dealing from a decision of one of them by limiting the number of Judges to two.

We hardly suppose this result was intended; but it is one of the many ill effects of the Acts of Parliament in a slipshod way without due consideration of the results used.

report on the alleged overpressure in the primary schools has at last been issued, and from the summary that has given in the newspapers we do not find much to amount to very much. Dr. CAICHTON-BROWNE, the author of the report, appears to have little of the system of elementary instruction upon which he pronounces judgment, and his sympathy seems to be narrower than his knowledge. Like some other writers, he believes that the children of the poor are over instructed, and that the drill they receive at school does them more harm than good. The opponents of modern methods of elementary education are divided into two classes; there are those who hold that they are the destruction of children's health, and there are others who maintain that they are the ruin of their bodies. The medico-legal expert was asked by Mr. MURPHY to inspect public elementary schools and to restate his impressions, and he expressed an opinion that the latter effect before entering upon his duties, and it would seem that in pursuing his duties his chief anxiety was to demonstrate the soundness of his opinion. The man who says that "Mental labour is dangerous to health and shortens life just in proportion as motionless idleness is mixed up with it," did not hardly sympathize with the work that goes on in the English Board schools. Dr. CAICHTON-BROWNE has examined the statistics of the REGISTRAR-GENERAL, and has discovered some remarkable increases in those diseases of insanity and suicide. He finds that the rates of lunatics per 1000 of the population of England, Scotland, and Ireland went up from 1·81 in 1862 to 2·41 in 1872, and to 2·84 in 1882, and that there has been an increase of 48,000 in the number registered lunatics of the three kingdoms during the last twenty years. It is found that there has been a rapid increase in the death rate from cephalitis, the rate for males having been 170 per million in 1861, and in 1880 it was 322. The statistics also show that deaths from nephritis, Bright's disease, and uremia have gone up from 97 million in 1861-5 to 244 per million in 1876-80. Such are the facts which Dr. CAICHTON-BROWNE has discovered, and for all that he has but one explanation, and that is that the system of brain-forcing which is resorted to in the Board schools.

There is nothing to prove that there is any connection whatever between the increase in the death-rate and the methods of instruction now does not seem to be even an attempt to show that there is an increase in the juvenile death-rate, or in the death rate among the children of children who are reached by the teaching of the schools. All the facts point to the opposite conclusion. A short time ago Dr. FLAXER pointed out that the health of children instead of having suffered by more teaching, had vastly improved. Since the passing of the Act of 1870, he showed the diminution in juvenile mortality has been wonderful, and it is claimed that the diminution is traceable to the bringing of a larger number of children to schools. The claim is also a reasonable one. Many of the children who are reachedy elementary schools are taken from miserable homes, from the evil surroundings of the streets, from the poisonous emanations of the sewers, and are brought into buildings in which ventilation and hygiene arrangements are more or less attended to. It would be very remarkable indeed if such a change were made to have the effect of promoting health and of lengthening life. The present system of instruction has only been in existence fourteen years, and it is argued that it is responsible for the increase which has taken place in the death rate among adults during the last twenty years. To be of any value an inquiry into the results of overpressure would have to embrace not only the children who go to elementary schools, but those who attend higher schools, and those who go to no school whatever. It would also have to embrace ten dozen or so of schools in a particular locality, and take a fair sample of the schools of the country. Dr. BROWNE'S inquiry was limited to a single district, and to a poor district of London. For the purpose of establishing a preconceived opinion such an inquiry would never admirably, but for that of getting at the truth it could not be of much value.

Everything that Dr. BROWNE found to be wrong in the Board schools he traced to over-pressure, and it was assumed that everything which the doctor disapproved would infallibly lead to over-pressure. Thus, it appeared that "tabulated statistics show that 43·4 per cent of the boys and 55 per cent of the girls suffer from neuralgia and toothache among children in elementary schools, and it is at once assumed that that percentage of the children do not suffer from such conditions, and that these children would not suffer from them if there were no over-pressure. Again, the doctor found that in some schools children were detained beyond school hours, and in connection with others a small quantity of work is given out to be done at home, and from these facts it is concluded that there must be serious over-pressure. It is true that there is no proof whatever of such over-pressure, but to this Dr. CAICHTON-BROWNE replies there is no proof to the contrary. "At present," he says, "it is believe, impossible to show that insanity is caused by education. But on the other hand it is vain to urge that it is not because this brain-forcing of the elementary schools is sufficient to lead to dyspepsia. Dr. speaking of the pupil teachers, Dr. BROWNE says: "Had I examined their tongues I might have had a long catalogue of gastric disorders to set off against their linguistic accomplishments." A report after this manner is not a report of facts, but of opinions, and in the case of Dr. CAICHTON-BROWNE even the opinions seem to have been hastily and emotionally formed. The doctor tells us that

COUNTRY NEWS.

(By Telegraph.)

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENTS.)

NEWCASTLE, TUESDAY.
Robert Barry, who has been employed on board the Government steamer Ajax, was in a boat belonging to that vessel yesterday, and has not been seen since. When last seen he was at Newcastle, when it was supposed he was under the influence of drink. The boat was found today by Constable Allen, of Newcastle, but he saw no signs of Barry, who is supposed to have been drowned.

The last weekly coal export amounted to 31,657 tons.

The Newcastle fifth team defeated the Parramatta team yesterday by 25 points.

The weather is fine.

GRAFTON, TUESDAY.
A man named William Underwood, in the employ of Messrs. J. and D. McAlister, was drowned last Saturday evening while crossing North Arm in a dingy in company with another man. The boat got swamped, and deceased being unable to swim, was drowned. The body was recovered yesterday.

A meeting of the inhabitants of the Lower Coldstream who have children attending the Public School in that locality, was held last Friday, outside of the school. After inspecting the building, which is stated to be in a very unsafe condition, the parents unanimously resolved to keep their children from school until a proper schoolhouse should be erected, owing to the dangerous condition of the present building. It is stated that a portion of the front wall fell in on Thursday.

The committee of the Clarence Pastoral and Agricultural Society have decided to ask for tenders for the erection of a pavilion on the shore-ground, the plans and specifications for which have been drawn by Mr. J. Pender, of Maitland. In appearance and dimensions it will be much the same kind of building as the Singleton pavilion.

GUNNDAH, TUESDAY.
The stock owners in this district are loud in their condemnation of the retrospective trucking regulations which were recently introduced by the Railway Department, and many of them will resort to the old system of sending their consignments by road, much to the detriment of the railway revenue. A deposit of 10s. per truck would, it is thought, have answered all purposes.

The inhabitants of Gunnadah are rejoiced to hear of the proposal to locate the survey office here, which is certainly a more central position than the present one.

The weather is sultry, with indications of a change.

WEST MAITLAND, TUESDAY.
A municipal election took place at West Maitland today, when Mr. George Luby was elected for the seat vacated by Mr. Dawson.

A special meeting of the West Maitland Borough Council was held to-night, which affirmed the desirability of the reversion of the ground to the Jockey Club, so as to raise a revenue to be devoted to the improvement of the ground.

A committee meeting of the Working Men's Club was held to-night, when it was decided to insure the premises furniture, and piano. The affairs of the club are in a flourishing state, and a larger building will soon have to be purchased for the use of the members.

LAUREL, TUESDAY.
Mr. Laurie's new vessel was christened the "Mary Laurie" and was successfully launched to-day, in the presence of over 300 spectators.

A dramatic entertainment took place to-night in aid of the school children's picnic and prize funds.

This is a splendid season, with grass and water in abundance.

PORT MACQUARIE, TUESDAY.
The Rev. W. Saunders, Anglican clergyman, leaves here for Kooragang next week. He has completed his fifth year in this parish, and the Rev. Mr. Kelly takes his place.

On Sunday last Mr. Culler, of Glenora, Rockliff Plains, landed from the steamer six draught horses, which he recently purchased in Sydney. They are intended for use on his farm, which is the largest on any of the Northern rivers. This year he will have 125 acres of land under corn.

Messrs. Jennings and Co. are rapidly erecting the boiler of their new mill in position, and are quickly erecting the necessary buildings.

The weather continues threatening, and is extremely cold for this season of the year. Farming operations are now in full swing.

LISMORE, TUESDAY.
There were no selections of land this week, but at the sale of forfeited selections by the land agent 37 acres were bought for £50, and 100 acres for £417.

The late rains have done much good, and the wind, W.S.W., keeps the air cooler than usual.

INVERELL, TUESDAY.
The District Court was held to-day, Judge Murray presiding.

The Roman Catholic Bishop of Armidale held a confirmation service on Sunday, when a large number were confirmed.

CARCOAR, TUESDAY.
The weather is mild and pleasant at present, but there are signs of a change for rain.

BATHURST, TUESDAY.
Henry Price, a well-known soldier, died this morning, after some days' illness. The deceased gentleman, who was about 66 years of age, was an old resident, and was held in high esteem not only by the profession, but by the public generally.

The Government has decided to establish the Lands Office under the new Act at Bathurst. It is expected that about 30 officers will be employed at this station.

TAREE, TUESDAY.
The Rev. Mr. Phillips, of the New Church of England, incumbent for the Lower Manning, arrived per steamer on Saturday, and held services to large congregations on Sunday, in St. John's Church, Taree, in the morning and evening, and at Cundletown in the afternoon.

Mr. Commissioner Bolding has been holding a land court of inquiry at Taree since October 31st, and will probably conclude his work on Wednesday next.

WELLINGTON, TUESDAY.
Haymaking is in full swing. Farmers are employing a large number of men, and a competitive exhibition of wheat, under the auspices of the Pastoral and Agricultural Society, is to be held next Saturday, when a large attendance is expected.

A great deal of sickness of a typhoid nature is prevalent among children.

The weather is fine and warm, and the wheat crops promise to be heavy.

BOURKE, TUESDAY.
The weather has become very close, and it is clouding up all round, and looking like a change. Bad reports continue to come in from all sides relative to the state of the country. A report has just been received that over an inch of rain has fallen at Bourke, 30 miles over the Queensland border from Bourke.

The water in the river is low, and the residents are eating water for domestic purposes many miles. The fresh-water creek is very shallow on Thargumindah station in several places.

GOULBURN, TUESDAY.
The races this week are expected to be very successful.

The Oddfellows' Hall was reopened yesterday evening by the Montague-Turner Opera Company. A large gallery and retiring-rooms have been erected, and the hall is now well improved.

The weather is warm and fine.

BLAIRWOOD, TUESDAY.
The weather is most propitious for harvesting and shearing, which have now begun in this district. The crops have not leaved so well for the last two years, and an immense hay crop is expected. The cattle are fattening quickly. There will only be half the usual crop in the shearing, owing to the late frosts.

HAY, TUESDAY.
The river is six feet, and rising slowly.

The weather looks like rain.

WAGGA WAGGA, TUESDAY.
About two weeks ago a young woman named Smith was admitted to the hospital suffering from severe burns on her body, which she received while attending to a fire. It was at first expected she would live, but after gradually becoming worse she died yesterday morning.

A lodge in connection with the Oddfellows of New South Wales was formed at Coolah on Saturday. The opening ceremony was performed by Messrs. G. Heydon, of Wagga, and Wheeler, of Juncos. Twenty-four members were initiated, and a banquet was held subsequently.

The weather is cool.

ALBURY, TUESDAY.
After two days of extreme heat, light rain set in this morning, and seems likely to last.

MORUYA, TUESDAY.
During the prevalence of the recent heavy snow, the portion of the coast the end of the breakwater which is under construction at the Heads was swept away, the rails of the ironway remaining suspended in mid air. A sandbank is now forming inside the new breakwater.

The programme for the Moruya annual races is now out, with a good list of prizes, and first-rate sport is expected. To-day, at the police court, Patrick Boyle, a notorious offender, was brought up on three distinct charges, viz., two for assaults and one for obscene language. He was sentenced in each case to three months' imprisonment in Broadmead gaol, and for using obscene language was sentenced to 96 hours in Moruya lock-up, with 20 lashes. This is the first flogging case here, and it has excited considerable interest. The last 23 previous convictions ranging from horse and cattle stealing to drunkenness, have been recorded against the offender.

AMUSEMENTS.

M. EDUARD REMENYI.

The second concert of the great Hungarian violinist attracted an audience which, if somewhat smaller in number than that of the preceding one, was not less enthusiastic and demonstrative as possible. The solo selected by Mr. Remenyi was the fantasia on Rossini's "Otello" by Ernst, a classic gem of the French school, by which the opera and the violinist are felicitously remembered; the nocturne E flat (Chopin), transcribed for violin by the player; and a "Valse Nocturne" composed by him, followed later by the introduction of and improvisation on the "Marche des Vents." The pathos of the "Otello" was beautifully rendered, and the "Valse Nocturne" was majestic in dignity, and the conclusion of Desdemona's romance, "Ave Maria" was so poetically and delicately given that it seemed breathed from the heart of the artist. The "Marche des Vents" which followed, and which was so poetically and delicately given that it seemed breathed from the heart of the artist.
